U. S. TAKES ISSUE WITH MEXICO ON LAND LAW

GERMAN KAISER A GAIN TO FORE

Proposal Of Money Gift Meets Opposition

Communists Gain Prestige By Taking Up Cudgel

Only Conservatives Favor Such a Move

BY EDGAR ANSEL MOWRER
(By Radio To The Washington C. H. Herald and The Chicago Daily News.)

Berlin, Jan. 9.—Germany is so poor that it can not take decent care of her unemployed and probably cannot carry out her reparations scheme, but it can plan to give five hundred millions to members of the House of Hohenzollern.

This was the complaint heard on all sides today after a Reichstag committee on Thursday undertook discussion of the entire problem especially to decide whether the entire question of distinction between Crown property and personal property must be settled by a constitutional amendment.

The Communists have gained considerable popularity by their insistence on a popular referendum to decide the matter. The Communists cry is "not a cent for Princes." Here lies the difficulty. The Social Democrats, who might have been expected to uphold the Communists in their demand for a total confiscation of all crown property, dared not take such a stand because of political negotiations and alliances with other parties and chiefly with the Catholic Center.

The Catholics are not really favorable to the Princes but fear that if a judicial precedent should be applied now against Princes, it could be used later against very rich Catholic Congressmen. Herr Severing Social Democrat Minister President of Prussia, has already signed the draft of a law giving the Hohenzollerns half a billion marks. His party feels itself committed.

The question is far from settled, however, for whatever is the opinion of political leaders, the man in the street, with the exception of the extreme conservatives, is unequivocally against bestowing on the former Kaiser and his relatives anything like the half billion marks proposed.

It is extremely probable that if the Communists carry out their plan for a nationwide referendum they can secure four million odd signatures, that is one tenth of the total voters of Germany, which would be necessary to force the issue. Workers of all descriptions, businessmen, shop keepers and even peasant would vote with the Communists.

Meanwhile the Communists are supporting the plan by clever propaganda. Other parties are much disturbed.

It is possible that the Reichstag committee will adopt a compromise and urge speedy acceptance on the Reichstag in the way of ordinary legislation, thus anticipating the Communists' and nullifying their threat.

VIOLATES ASSURANCE GIVEN U. S. AT TIME RECOGNITION GRANTED

Prolonged Controversies Fail To Remove Obstacles

ULTIMATE PROCEDURE AS CONTEMPLATED BY WASHINGTON A SECRET

Coolidge Is Expected To Stand Squarely On New Issue

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 9.—Formal representation against retroactive features of the new Mexican anti-land law have been filed with the Mexican foreign office by American Ambassador Sheffield.

The action of the Washington government was taken after prolonged diplomatic interchanges which failed to remove either from the land law or the new petroleum act those features which are held here to violate assurances given by the Mexican government at the time diplomatic recognition was accorded it by the Washington government in 1923.

Informing the Mexican foreign office of the displeasure resulting here from the new Mexican laws, the State Department has spoken in direct and forceful terms of the injury it feels will be done to American interests if the legislation goes into effect. Both statutes are based upon the celebrated Article 27 of the Mexican constitution against the application of which the United States has more than once protested.

The document presented by Ambassador Sheffield does not say what steps this government may find it necessary to take if it is unable to obtain adequate assurance for the protection of property interests of Americans in Mexico. It is considered probable, however, that the ambassador's verbal representations supplementing documents may have given a clear indication of what may be expected.

There is every reason to believe that President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg intend to stand squarely upon the public declaration of Mexican policy sometime ago by the secretary. In this declaration, Mr. Kellogg said that "the Government of Mexico is now on trial before the world."

"It should be made clear that this government will continue to support the government in Mexico only so long as it protects American lives and American rights and complies with international engagements and obligations."

Although officials here are carefully avoiding open comment on the present situation in view of the diplomatic changes now in progress, there is no doubt that State Department officials who have studied carefully the new Mexican laws are convinced they not only fail to protect American interests but affirm those interests by compelling American citizens who have made bonafide investments south of the border to either give them up entirely or sell at a confiscatory price.

RUBBER AND COFFEE INQUIRY IN LIMELIGHT.

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 9.—A concerted effort will be made by House Democrats to investigate profits made in the rubber and coffee trades by American interests.

Representative Oldfield, of Arkansas, acting minority leader, announced today he would ask for immediate consideration of a resolution to broaden the present investigation by the House Commerce committee, which now has the authority to inquire into only foreign monopolies in rubber, coffee and other raw materials.

ARLINGTON HOTEL LEASE SOLD FRIDAY

PAUL CARMAN TAKES CHARGE FEBRUARY 1

All Present Equipment Also Purchased

DEAL IS CONCLUDED ON FRIDAY EVENING

J. Warren Hicks, Former Owner, Steps Out

J. Warren Hicks has sold his lease of the Arlington Hotel, together with all of the fixtures and equipment, to Paul Carman of near Jasper, who will take personal charge of the popular hostelry on and after February 1.

The transaction was completed late Friday, and followed negotiations which have been pending for some days.

Mr. Hicks, who for years has been interested in The M. Hamm Company and spent most of his time devoting his attention to that business, will now give his entire time to the work with the company in which he is one of the stockholders.

The Arlington hotel was leased of George Browne, of Cincinnati, some seventeen months ago, for a period of ten years, and when he found his other work demanding more and more of his time and attention, Mr. Hicks sold his holdings in the hotel.

Prior to the lease taken by Mr. Hicks, the Arlington had been under the management of Chas. Browne, son of the owner.

Mr. Carman, it is understood, will continue to conduct the hotel along the successful lines followed by Mr. Hicks, and will shape his other business so that he can take charge of the hotel first of the coming month.

ATTACK LAUNCHED AGAINST TARIFFS

Harbor Dried Up On Maine Coast By Tidal Wave

EARTHQUAKE ON SEA BOTTOM GENERAL BELIEF

(By Associated Press.)
Southwest Harbor, Maine, Jan. 9.—An unprecedented phenomenon, apparently local in character, today sucked dry the harbor at Bernard, three miles from here, and then sent a ten-foot tidal wave crashing back to the shore, carrying with it fifty fishing boats.

The tidal wave was preceded by distinct rumbles, which led to the belief that an earthquake at the sea's bottom off shore may have caused the phenomenon, although no tremors were felt.

Two men were forced to jump from their crafts and flee to the shore. They had the amazing experience of seeing the water sucked from beneath their craft as the harbor slowly was emptied after deep rumbling sounds that caused many inhabitants to fear earthquake. As the keel of their boat touched the bottom they leaped out and ran to shore, dodging ice cakes that had tumbled down.

Several Revisions Are Introduced

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, Jan. 9.—Undismayed by the heavy voting odds against the democratic members of the House are redoubling their efforts to break down the present Republican tariff.

With many tariff revisions pending, say new ones were introduced today and referred to committees.

One by Representative Hull, Democrat, Tennessee, would repeal the 10 percent levy on imported rubber tires. A series by Representative Weller, New York, would restore the old Democratic Underwood rates on livestock, grain and poultry products.

Representative Weller declared the one way to reduce the cost of living—tariff reduction—apparently never had occurred to President Coolidge. Instead of seeking to reduce the cost of living," said the New York representative, "he is said to be ready to support agricultural measures which will impose an additional burden on eastern consumers, merely because the agricultural states of the Middle West are in economic and political revolt.

"It is obvious that Mr. Coolidge is not thinking so much of the farmers' relief as he is of votes."

Chicago, Ill., January 9.—Virtually penniless amid treasures, Baron and Baroness Rudolph Martin Schaeffer are waiting hopefully for a better day.

Once intimate with the Austrian royal court, they are now living in reduced circumstances here, with the kitchen of their small apartment as their drawing room. But around them are priceless art treasures which they managed to save out of the wreck of their fortunes.

The Baron, former major in the Austrian Army and art connoisseur, recently came here with his wife, Stephanie, from Lemburg, Poland.

Among the things that furnish their humble rear apartment are:

Diary dictated by Napoleon the Great to an intimate friend while in his first exile on the Island of Elba. It is written in almost microscopic letters and gives many facts about Napoleon's love affairs known to very few, including copies of letters to and from his numerous sweethearts. Many of the letters could not be put into public prints.

Chess set of Nicholas II, who was executed by Bolsheviks in 1918. The chessmen are carved from India ivory, and aside from its historic value, the workmanship on the set makes it worth $10,000.

A painting of the Christus attributed to Michelangelo, greatest of the early Italian artists. It is an almost exact replica of the immortal and priceless "Ecce Homo" of Guido Reni in the Bologna gallery. Inasmuch as Reni was a pupil of Michelangelo, it is possible that he copied his tutor's work. In any event Schaeffer's paint-

ENDURING PEACE IN THE WORLD OF TRANSPORTATION SEEMS ASSURED

Out Of Many Months Of Conflict a Plan Has Come

Effort Of Railroads To Gain Ascendancy Fails

McAdoo's Dictatorship Placed Labor On Firm Plain

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
Washington, Jan. 9.—Peace in the transportation world, long the goal of those who guide the destinies of capital and labor, is at last in sight.

Out of many months of conference between railroad executives and labor leaders—men who have fought each other bitterly not merely before the United States Labor Board, but in the lobbies and committees of Congress as well as in political campaigns—has come a formula for the adjustment of industrial disputes.

Back of the La Follette third party movement last year were the railway brotherhoods. They had reported to political warfare because of a belief that railroad executives were engaged in a systematic effort to wipe out the labor standards achieved during wartime control of the railroads by the Government. All during the Wilson administration, the railroad brotherhoods and affiliated organizations had found a sympathetic attitude in Washington. This was evidenced by the passage of the Adamson eight hour law and a policy of open

RUCKUS AT SHORT SESSION FEARED

Ohio Legislators Hopeful On Eve Of Gathering

Possibility Of Complexities Admitted By Leaders

Sen. Hopley Passes Buck To Governor Donahey

(By Associated Press.)
Columbus, O., January 9.—Hopeful that everything will go smoothly but fearful that some one will start a ruckus, members of the Ohio Legislature will gather here next week for their one-day session.

They will caucus Thursday afternoon—the session is called for nine a. m., Friday morning—and prepare the way for the short and snappy session which Legislative leaders have asserted must be held.

In the meantime, copies of the emergency tax relief bill, which, under the call, is the only thing to be considered, are in the hands of all assembly members. This was done so that everyone could familiarize himself with the measure and thus be prepared to vote on it one way or another when it comes up.

Legislative leaders profess to see a political kick-back for the coming campaign if the assembly prolongs its stay and gets into a controversy over anything. But they haven't assurance from many members that attempts will not be made to introduce pet bills or settle old grievances.

What will be attempted at the Thursday caucus is to lay down the law to those who have said they won't come back on the basis of considering only the relief measures. The leaders want to roll up enough sentiment so that they can go to such Senators and Representatives and tell them it will be useless to try to bring anything else up. They want to be able to say to them that any such moves will be snowed under instantly.

It was pointed out that if the assembly decides to stick solely to the business of passing the tax bill, the session can be over in an hour. The measure can be voted upon at the same time in each house, and unless the winds of argument are loosened, disposed of in just the time necessary to tally a vote.

What is causing as much speculation as anything is the projected investigation of alleged liberal leanings of members of the Ohio State University faculty, resulting from the finding of Dabney Horton, assistant instructor at the institution, on a charge of possessing liquor.

In some quarters it is expected that Governor Vic Donahey will make a sudden and unexpected move. He referred the trustees' committee of the University, which will hold open hearings next week on the issue, to Senate.

HENRY FORD TO PRESERVE NEW ENGLAND TOWN WHERE CITIZENS WILL LIVE COLONIAL LIVES

(By Associated Press.)

Sudbury, Mass., Jan. 9.—A village that will preserve the simplicity and quaint beauty of early New England life is to be erected by Henry Ford in this town, the home of the historic Wayside Inn.

Three hundred persons are to live much in the manner of early Colonial times near the inn which will be secluded from disturbingly modern traffic by re-routing the Boston turnpike at a cost of $50,000 to Mr. Ford.

Homes, grist mills, barns and furnishings will all be of Colonial style in keeping with the atmosphere of the inn. Each home will be a treasure house of antiques. Swords and horse pistols will grace the mantels of stone fireplaces. Windsor chairs, gateleg tables, pewter tableware, horn handled knives and forks will be found on the lower floors. In the bedroom will be found four-poster beds covered with crazy quilts. There will be bedwarmers and candlesticks.

HUMILIATION HUNG ON BLUE AND WHITE BASKETEERS WITH NEAR SHUT-OUT AT HANDS OF COLUMBUS CENTRAL

Ireland Scores Only Goal As Game Closes

The date of January 8 will always be circled in black on the calendars of Washington High School players and followers of basketball, for, for the first time in many years, the boys and girls teams both suffered defeats on the same night. The girls sextette went down before the strong team from Bexley High, 16 to 9, while the boys were shut out by the Central team from Central High School, of Columbus, even without the services of Tittle, their star forward and leading point-getter, almost shut out the erspiring Blue and White boys team. The final score was 26 to 2 and it took field goal of a rather scratchy nature of Ireland, a guard, in the last minute of play, to avert the whitewash.

The defeat suffered by last year's S.C. O. champs was one of the most humiliating ever inflicted on a local squad. After Glassman had shot a basket from the floor on one free throw and Carmichael had dropped a double pointer to give Central a 0 to 0 lead at the end of the first quarter, and after the Blue and White lads had missed chance after chance to score while Stock, Carmichael, Ingram and Glassman kept dropping them in from the field and from the free throw line, it was soon seen that the local lads were going to have a hard time scoring, let alone winning the game.

The Central lads cantered up and down the floor at an easy gait, evidently saving their best for the Hamilton game. Occasionally Dud Stock would drop one in from the floor and then Carmichael or some other Central lad would cage another, until at half time the score was 13 to 0.

At the three quarter post the count stood 19 to 0. And so it went until the very last minute of play when Billy Ireland securing the ball in the extreme northwest corner of the floor, dropped one backhanded that dropped through the net for the lone score of the Blue and White five.

Dud Stock, remembered by football fans as the full back on Central's team, was the leading point-getter of the game with five baskets and two free tosses. Carmichael, huge negro center, also played a bang-up game on the floor, while the strong guarding time of Ingram and Glassman had much to do with Washington's inability to score. Another feature of the game was the ease with which Stock and Carmichael would take the ball from some local player as he wended his way down the floor intent on scoring. Tittle, Central's leading point-getter in other games, was out of this contest because of an injured hand, at the Capital City lads seemed not to miss him one whit, neither were they handicapped in the least by the mall floor.

On the other hand, it looked at times as if the Washington backboard might have had a magnet located at some point far distant from the basket as no matter what they tried—long shot, short shot, free throw, it was all the same—they missed the basket by the proverbial mile. They didn't have a great number of chances to shoot but there was little excuse for missing some of the opportunities they did have. The local lads developed a good passing game in the center of the floor, but when they neared the basket, the Central defense would tighten down on most occasions and some Central lads would secure the ball to have his team carry it back down the floor. The Washington boys were handicapped by the absence of McLean their flashy forward.

But there is one thing certain. A considerable improvement in basket shooting must be shown in the opening league tilt next Friday or the strong Frankfort quintet is liable to take the bacon home with them.

GIRLS GAME

SOMEWHAT CLOSER

The girls' game was not quite so one-sided, although Bexley mainly by the excellent shooting ability of Hieronymous and the good playing of L. Kruckelburg, roving center soon got away to a good lead, the score at half time standing 9 to 4.

The local girls kept the score a little tighter in the second half allowing the Bexleyites only 7 points, while Hixon who did all the scoring for Washington, dropped in 2 fielders and one free throw.

Two redheads were the star players for the winners, Hieronymous doing the bulk of the scoring, while L. Kruckelburg played a good game on the floor. As noted above, Hixon did all the local's scoring while Short put up a good game while she was on the

BLOOMINGBURG LOSES TO DELTA SIGMA PHI

VISITORS TAKE EARLY LEAD AND HOLD IT.

(Special to The Herald) Bloomingburg, Jan. 9.—The strong Delta Sigma Phi team of the Ohio State University Intra-Mural league, outweighed and outplayed the local High School, five in the game here Friday night, the final score being 24 to 13 in favor of the Collegians.

The game was fast and hard fought throughout, but the Bloomingburg lads were unable to hold their larger opponents, all of whom are former high school stars. The fraternity team got away to a good lead, the score at half time being 8 to 4 in their favor. Manthey and Geer did practically all of their scoring while Ackerman played a good guarding game. Newland was the leading scorer for the locals besides playing a good game on the floor.

The game was witnessed by a fair-sized crowd. No admission was charged.

M'CLAIN HIGH WINS OPENING LEAGUE TILT

Special to The Herald.

Greenfield, Jan. 9.—In the opening game of the South Central league race here Thursday night, the McClain lads defeated Circleville 15 to 11, in a hard fought, interesting contest. The game was moved up from Friday night because of the Teachers' convention here Friday and Saturday.

Earl Prugh of Antioch college refereed the game.

After losing to the locals Thursday night, the Circleville lads went to Columbus Friday night and handed the strong Aquinas High team a 21 to 20 defeat on their own floor, Captain Courtright of Circleville, shooting the winning basket in the second overtime period.

LEAGUE STANDING

BLUE AND WHITE DRAWS BYE IN FIRST ROUND.

Wilmington, Greenfield and Chillicothe were the winners in the first round of the South-Central basketball league over Hillsboro, Circleville and Frankfort respectively.

Two of these games were exceedingly close, only the Wilmington-Hillsboro affair developing into anything like a runaway. The surprise packer of the first round was the manner in which the supposedly weak Frankfort team held the Chillicothe five, touted as one of the leading contenders in the league race.

Washington Hi drew the bye and were swamped by Columbus Central.

The Bears won 4 to 3.

BILLIARD LEAGUE SCORES ONE-SIDED

None of the three Fayette County Billiard League games clicked off at "The Club," Friday evening, were close, the winners all having a comfortable margin at the end of the games.

Sollars and Smith defeated Ford and Miller, 100 to 48, in the first game. Smith was subbing for Ferneau. Sollars made the high run of the evening in this game when he clicked off 19 billiards without a miss.

Baker and Kelly defeated Jackson and Thompson in the second contest 100 to 70. Three of the four players in this game were subs, Jackson and Thompson filling in for Jones and F. Brown while Kelly took Weaver's place. Baker's run of 12 was high for this game.

In the final, S. Reser and A. Brown upset Tracy and Gage, 100 to 71. Reser ran 10 billiards for the high single run of this contest.

is free sometimes. Did anybody ever tell you how to get water out of the ground? Dig a hole 150 feet deep and about as big around as a stove pipe. Cut some holes in an iron pipe, the pipe to be as long as the hole is deep. Drop the pipe in the hole in the ground with the holey end of the pipe in the bottom. But first fasten a small pipe, about the size of a broom handle to the bottom of the big pipe and extend the small pipe to the pumping station. Pump some air through the little pipe to the bottom of the big pipe and the air will force the water out of the top of the big pipe, perhaps. It all depends on whether or not there is water in the big pipe.

The Thaws

Reports are to the effect that Harry K. Thaw is to go to Chicago where his former wife, the pitiable Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is making a struggle for her life, with the purpose of giving her whatever assistance is necessary.

If Thaw does that he will have gone a long way toward proving to the public that he is sane and possesses the instincts of a real man.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's course has been a tempestuous one. She has gone the pace and has paid the price. She is a wretched wreck of her former self. Her beauty is gone. Wild dissipation and excesses have destroyed the beauty of face and figure, undermined her health, weakened her mind and destroyed her moral fibre. She is but a human derelict, adrift in a wild storm torn world. She needs help.

The world will not forget, and Harry K. Thaw should not be able to ever forget, that when Evelyn Nesbit Thaw was one of the reigning beauties of that mad circle of New York, it was then that she bared her soul before the morbidly curious to save Thaw from the death chair for the murder of Stanford White. When Thaw needed help she gave it and at awful cost. Her testimony made an outcast of her. Fate has dealt cruelly with her. She has been a branded woman, doing her feeble best to exist and take care of her boy.

Twice, discouraged and heart broken, she has given up the uneven battle and attempted suicide, but, thwarted, she has lived on in her misery. Evelyn Thaw's sins are no blacker than those of her husband. She is what he, and others like him, made of her.

A reconciliation of these two wrecks of today, now in middle age—yesterday the pampered young of a gilded circle of excess and sin—would be given the approval of the world and provide protection for a little lad, reputed to be a lovable chap, of fifteen, who needs a father's help even if that father is Harry K. Thaw.

Perhaps these two human derelicts, united in the purpose to care for the innocent lad, might make amends in the twilight of life for a wasted youth that would count largely in their favor in the eternity they must soon enter.

The Floods in Europe

The rivers of Europe have been at unusually high flood stage and the damages resulting to crops and property has been tremendous.

Several nations have suffered enormous damage because of the floods and some considerable loss of life, too, has occurred.

We, here in America, are very likely to think of the rivers of Europe as much larger than they really are because they flow through or around several nations and because of the great damage they do there. When we think of those features of the floods in European rivers we are likely to think of them as larger than our American rivers.

The fact is that the rivers of Europe are much smaller than our own. The normal stage and the flood stage of water is much less than of our own rivers, but the population of the territory through which they flow is very much denser than that which borders our own rivers and the nations over there are not, many of them larger than our own states.

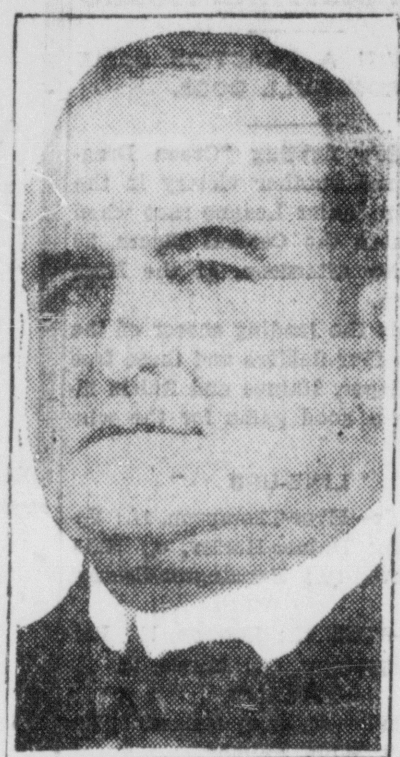

When we get those facts fixed in our minds, the idea that the rivers of Europe are larger than those of America vanishes.

It is the difference in the surroundings that increases the capacity for damage by flood and the small size of the nations which makes the rivers of Europe seem larger and the floods greater.

European rivers have been at high flood such as we experience with our own rivers—many of them—every year, but the damage here is not so great and we only have states effected while over there it is nations.

European rivers are historic, too. For centuries they have been border lines referred to in history, the halting places of advancing armies, the subject of prose and poetry and the inspiration for songs. That, too, has given those rivers a "reputation" which is inclined to give us an exaggerated idea of their size.

POETRY FOR TODAY

APPLE BLOOMS

Thou' the winter winds are whistling
And the skies are overcast,
And barren are the meadows and the hills:

Yet, I find it somehow lightens
All the rigors of the blast,
Just to do the tasks assigned me with a will:

For the garden of contentment
Is in service nobly done;
No matter 'bout the shadows and the gloom:

For well I know the morrow
Will be golden in the sun,
And fragrant with the breath of apple blooms.

I do not mind the bruises
Or the fury of the storm;
Nor begrudge the price I pay for happiness:

For I have learned this lesson—
"That for every ache and thorn
God will hold me—fold me closer to his breast;"

So thru the winter silences
I dream and love and laugh;
No matter 'bout the shadows and the gloom.

For well I know tomorrow
In the golden sun I'll quaff
The fragrance of the breath of apple blooms.

"The waving woman" has attracted attention of travelers on the Savannah river for forty years. She waves at every boat, and has become so famous that all boats answer her wave with a toot of the whistle. The story is that the woman has waited long years for a lover who never returned.

Every plant has a period of rest, due annually, and for this reason leaves of trees are shed without injuring the tree.

EMPLOYMENT SHOWS NO SIGN OF APPROACHING DISAGREEMENTS

Average Rate Of Common Labor Lower

While Artisans Scale Is Slightly Higher

Agreement Between Labor And Railroads Satisfactory

BY J. C. ROYLE

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
New York, Jan. 9.—Employment today showed no signs of storms approaching in the near future. But the skies of industry are not entirely cloudless. The chief anxiety is felt with regard to the action of the building trades. In many of these lines of endeavor wage scales come up for revision in the spring and the duration of the tremendous building activity which helped so materially in supporting every line of American business in 1925 is known to be dependent on keeping building costs at or close to present figures.

Reports received by telegraph today from widely scattered sections indicate that while the average rate for common labor is around 54 cents an hour or slightly lower than a year ago, the remuneration of skilled artisans is slightly above that of January, 1925. Taking the 1913 costs as 100, the Engineering news record figure for construction costs this month is 207.15, as compared with 210.40 a year ago 273.80, the 1920 peak.

Most distributors and manufacturers heaved a sigh of satisfaction over the agreement between the railroads and the railway brotherhoods on terms of a bill to settle wage disputes. The terms agreed upon would provide for arbitration and prevent any strike or change in the situation for at least thirty days after a report has been made to the President by a board named by him to probe any failure to agree.

Producers, distributors and merchandisers have all changed their system of doing business in the last two years to take advantage of the increased efficiency of the railroads and any sudden failure of that efficiency would work serious damage to the whole business fabric of the country.

Employers and employees alike are a good deal puzzled today to know just where organized labor stands with regard to arbitration. The most powerful single union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, the United Mine Workers, whose leaders have been conferring without avail with mine operators in an effort to end the anthracite strike, have taken the stand that under no circumstances will they submit differences to arbitration. The three great railroad brotherhoods, the most powerful group in the American Federation of Labor, on the other hand, not only advocate arbitration but are supporting a law which would make arbitration compulsory.

A combination of civic and commercial bodies in Philadelphia are making insistent demands that Gov. Pinchot use his efforts to have the legislature, which will shortly meet in special session, repeal the mine certificate law, which makes it obligatory, for miners in anthracite properties to have a state license. This in the past has prevented use of non union workers in the anthracite fields during strikes.

It has also been suggested that the Governor be given authority to suspend the mine certificate law in times of strikes.

The most prominent dramatists of America, while they have not today affiliated themselves with the Federation of Labor, to all intents and purposes have formed themselves into a Union, to protect their interest in the moving picture rights to their plays. There are 131 dramatists in the Union, but the managers who oppose their stand say there are at least 75,000 people in this country who have written or think they can write plays and that there will be no lack of dramatic offerings even if the prominent dramatists withhold their offerings.

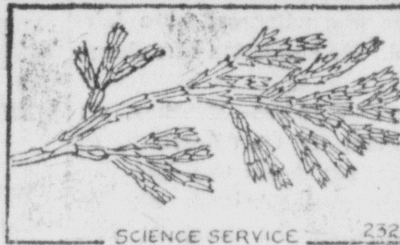

William Cooper Proctor, President of Proctor and Gamble, soap manufacturers, said today that as a result of the company's plan to guarantee employment labor turnover from all causes, including deaths, illness, and marriage has now been reduced below one percent a month. The company guarantees 48 weeks work each year.

ARBOR VITAE

Among the trees that help to make our winters cheerful in spite of the snow, one of the sturdiest and most attractive is the arbor vitae. Its Latin-looking name means "tree of life"—a merited title not only because of its evergreenness but because it is a very thrifty tree, presenting very few dead twigs and branches as a usual thing, and growing slowly through a life of many years. One seldom sees a large arbor vitae in cultivation, because its growth is so slow, but as small ornamentals and especially as hedge plants they are unexcelled among the evergreens.

The structure of the twigs and leaves of this little tree is a puzzle to many people. It looks as though they had indefinitely branching flat compound leaves, like a queer sort of fern, but really all that branching structure consists of twigs, and the leaves are the very tiny, scale-like structures that cover their surfaces like the scales on the body of a fish or snake. Only the larger twigs and branches, that have grown up and shed their leaves, show themselves without this armor of stiff green scales.

The arbor vitae is somewhat related to the junipers, which are more commonly called "red cedar." Since the wood is white in contrast to the reddish grain of the juniper timber, the arbor vitae also bears the name "white cedar." An arbor vitae or white cedar swamp is a valuable bit of timber land if the trees are of a size for posts or other small lumber, or they will supply material that is very strong and exceedingly resistant to rot when in contact with the ground.

Moscow.—(AP)—Madame Lenin would be offended if a male "comrade" offered her a seat in a train, opened a door for her or stepped aside to give her precedence.

Hand-kissing and hat-tipping have been relegated to the past in Communist Russia for hygienic reasons and men and women are on a par. There is no sex in Communism.

But strangely enough men still continue to kiss each other. The old method of salutation among men relatives and intimate men friends is so strong that government regulations have not wiped it out. Hand-shaking is also under government ban.

SUICIDES

German Business Men Shake Their Heads

"RAVENS" CROAKING

Idea Of Self Destruction Taking Berlin

BY EDGAR ANSEL MOWER

(By Radio to Washington C. H. Herald and The Chicago Daily News.)

Berlin, Jan. 8.—Were today's events in Germany happening a couple of centuries ago, the wiser part of the population would certainly have assumed the presence nearer the earth of certain unseen "pestilential comets."

Since Christmas the newspapers have been filled with news of floods, earthquakes, raven-like croakings of prophets and the sadder and more exact news of suicides.

The latest suicide which is the talk of Berlin is that of the international art dealer, Paul Cassirer, who shot himself and died early yesterday morning. The motives were found in his disappointment at his martial relations. His wife was the actress Tilla Durieux, one of the most brilliant, strangest and most adventurous of Berlin women.

Cassirer himself was a neurotic personality gifted with an unusual love of art and energy to which nearly half of Berlin's artists owe something. His wife wished to divorce him and the idea was more than he was able to stand.

Tilla Durieux is almost the most brilliant of Berlin's actresses. She is a woman over fifty years of age. She is tall and slender, with the most beautiful figure and the plainest face in Germany. She is a fascinating talker and intellectual but incurably what the French call "grande amoureuse." Details of her relations with various persons have been the common talk of Berlin cafes.

Another recent suicide is that of Kurt Rothe, formerly one of the proprietors of the beautiful flower shops in the hotels Adlon and Bristol, the windows of which are an esthetic delight. Months ago his firm began to suffer and Kurt left, leaving the business to his senior partner his brother Hermann.

Herman Roth was later forced to ask for "business supervision" a kind of veiled bankruptcy. In the meanwhile, Kurt had speculated badly and had other worries. Finally, unable to face life any longer, he went to a retired part of the Grunewald and sent a bullet through his temple.

The body was found Sunday. German business men are shaking grave heads since the case is typical of the newer class of German suicides.

FACILITIES OF BANK TAKEN TO FARMERS

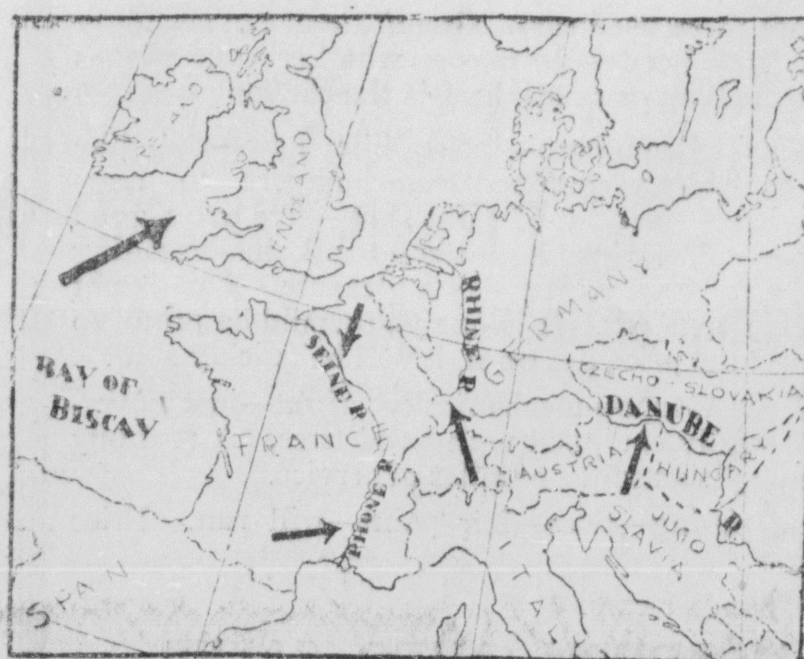

Rising Sun, Ind.—(AP)—When the farmers of southeastern Indiana find themselves unable to keep bankers' hours, the Rising Sun State Bank takes it facilities to the farmers.

Representatives of the institution cover the surrounding territory in automobiles, accepting bank deposits, transacting small loans and cashing checks.

The bank representatives also receive deposits from cream stations along the way and sell fire and tornado insurance as sideline.

Floods Peril Wide Areas in Europe

Floods following torrential rains over northern Europe are threatening wide areas with heavy damage. The Seine, Rhone, Danube and Rhine rivers are making many homeless. London is storm swept and steamships crossing the English channel and Bay of Biscay report the worst conditions in years. May shows where the peril is greatest.

Society-Personal Mention-Fiction-Household Hints

It was a dream of a luncheon table at which Mrs. Loring L. Brock assembled the Thursday luncheon-bridge club Friday. An exquisite fillet luncheon set, immense fluted glazed pottery water garden in candles sticks holding Sauterne candles, Spring flowers and goblets and compotes in blue crystal formed a most artistic ensemble. In the center of the water garden a large swan held yellow narcissus, calendas and fern, while smaller swans holding the same flowers encircled it. At each of the eight covers were little silver nut baskets, the handles tied with yellow tulle.

Four courses, most elaborate and comprising unusual delicacies, were served.

Together with the pleasure of the luncheon and its subsequent afternoon over the bridge tables, the guests enjoyed the beautiful home, with its handsome hangings, rare antiques and colorful accessories.

Mrs. James Ford, a club guest, won the trophy in the game.

Ten members of the Good Cheer Community Circle met at the Wilson School Thursday afternoon for their regular business session.

Mrs. Grace McCoy, Vice President, had charge of the meeting, which was opened by the singing of "America." The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and the treasurer gave a gratifying report.

The H. H. club members of the school were guests of the circle. No further business was presented and the circle adjourned.

With deep interest and unveiled surprise to her American friends, who inevitably copy her modes and fads, comes the word that Dress and Footwear are reforming in Paris.

The saying that "la Parisienne does not dress for the weather" has almost become a proverb. She is noted for her charm; and dress plays no small part in it. But "la Parisienne" is beginning to get a little bit tired of shivering through the streets, suffering numb toes and docilely submitting to sore throats, colds, dizziness, lassitude, not to say anything of the more serious maladies which cold, wet feet are prone to introduce. Likewise, she admits ruefully that a red nose is hardly an adjunct of beauty. And red noses, so Dame Nature says, must go with cold feet.

"La Parisienne" therefore, is seriously considering going in for something warmer than sheer hose, décol-lete shoes and skirts that make no pretence of keeping the legs warm. She is even thinking of following the example of her sisters in London, who, to the number of over three hundred thousand, have adopted Russian and Wellington boots. A month to six weeks ago the boot was scornfully regarded as an ostracized subject, but since the cold weather has come in with a vengeance "la Parisienne" is found in all classes of society wearing Russians.

Thus booted, a pretty Viscountess made her appearance this week in the Avenue du Bois, a Boulogne and this has given no little prestige to the vogue in the upper circles of Parisian society.

Russian boots were also seen worn by two ladies, who were standing in front of the indicator, which records the fluctuation of the dollar and pound sterling at one of the American banks on the Place Vendome, and so intently were they engaged in their financial calculations that everybody had a splendid opportunity of studying their footgear. Elaborate Russian boots in beige glazed kid these models were, since they were embroidered at the top with red worsted and still further ornamented with appliques of silvered kid.

Finally, the important news must be recorded that Mistinguett, the most popular music-hall actress, has taken to wearing "Russians," after being confined to the house for ten days with influenza. Evidently she does not mean to catch any more colds this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Logan Buzick threw open their most attractive new home Friday night for an exceptionally delightful card party, in which five tables were at play.

The fragrance of flowers added to the warmth and cheer, and pink and white were the colors effectively used in decoration.

The trophies in a spirited game of "500" were won by Mrs. W. R. Crisenberry, Mrs. B. F. Leland, Mr. Jay Burnett and Mr. Rudolph Wolfe.

Late in the evening the hostess served a particularly delicious luncheon. Mrs. Charles U. Armstrong and Mrs. Edgar Snyder assisted in the cordial hospitalities.

On Saturday, January twenty third, Mrs. Amanda Maull Paxson will present several of her vocal pupils in a vocal recital at a studio tea.

After the recital the Paxson home will be turned over to the young people for a little daunt.

The pupils taking part are Mary Katherine Junk, Gladys Coffey, Katherine Robinson, Hope Johnson, Mabel French, Betty Creamer, Pauline Little, Sam Fultz, Henry Hoppes.

For the regular meeting of the Mill-edgeville W.C.T.U., Mrs. James Johnson was hostess this week.

The president, Mrs. Harry Allen, led the devotionals and presided during the business session.

In the social hour, Mrs. Johnson was assisted in serving refreshments by her sister, Mrs. Grant Sutton, of near Sabina.

Mrs. Pearl Harford and Miss Maude Ellen Owens arrived Friday evening from Oklahoma City for an indefinite visit with their sister, Mrs. Charles Lawrence, and family.

Mrs. Alex S. Ballard, of Columbus, is visiting her son, Mr. C. Pearce Ballard, and family, and sister, Mrs. John Logan, and Mr. Logan.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Betzold, of Cleveland, who were called here by the death of Mrs. Betzold's mother, Mrs. Ellen Ball, and have since been visiting Mr. and Mrs. George Donahoe, are returning to their home Sunday.

Miss Nelle Tilton, of New Vienna, is spending the week end with her sister, Mrs. T. O. Dowden, and Mr. Dowden.

Mr. Harry Buchanan leaves Sunday on a business trip to St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Clara Davis has moved from Mrs. Pauline Custis' home in East street to the home of Mrs. A. R. Creamer and daughter, Mrs. Alice Moorman, in Columbus avenue, to reside with them for the winter.

Mrs. Ezra Ackley and Mrs. W. H. Wilson were visitors in Columbus, Friday, Mrs. Wilson remaining over the week end the guest of relatives.

Newton Browning is down from Ohio State University for the week end.

Mrs. Sarah J. Patton left Saturday for St. Petersburg, Fla., where she will join her daughter, Mrs. Daisy Haynes, and grandson, Mr. Richard Haynes, for an indefinite visit.

Mr. Jesse Haynes, now home from Grant Hospital and recovering nicely from his recent operation, has as his guests his father, Mr. David Haynes, of Chillicothe, and his brother, Mr. Thomas Haynes, of Lebanon, Mo.

RUCKUS AT SHORT SESSION IS FEARED

for James R. Hopley, of Bucyrus, who was the author of the well known "red resolution" of the last session.

Hopley, however, said that he was a "regular Republican" and if the majority sentiment was to consider only the tax bill he probably would try to raise a disturbance along another line.

He added that the Governor had started the investigation controversy and it was up to him to finish it, in his opinion.

Hopley's resolution a year ago sought to authorize a joint legislative investigation of charges that faculty members of the University were permitting Communist tendencies to creep into their classroom work. It never got out of the committee.

The resolution contained a great deal of information purporting to show that individual members of the faculty had sided along this line in the past. Hopley said this information was as available to the Governor as it was to him.

Another thing which may have to be decided by the assembly is the vexing question of how to adjourn. Leaders would like to adjourn sine die, but if they do Governor Donahoe can make recess appointments to the important state commissions and for the last two sessions, the assembly has been regularly turning down all his appointments.

The Legislature, also, to prevent him from making recess appointments, has restored to adjourning from stated time to stated time, thus being thorough actually, but legally and technically only in a one or two day recess.

tripped over a piece of building iron, scratched her face slightly and tore a stocking. They were about to escape when by chance a traffic officer directed their taxi-cab around the corner in front of the very crowd from which they had tried to escape. They finally reached the pier and disappeared aboard the liner.

Another passenger booked on the Leviathan was Ray Goetz, brother of Mr. Berlin's first wife, Dorothy Goetz, in whose memory he composed, "When I Lost You," shortly after her death on their honeymoon in 1913.

Mr. R. S. Townsley is over from Lancaster spending the week end with his parents and his daughter and son, Mary Jane and Harry K.

Mr. Emerson Chapman and Mr. Carroll Flee left this week for Akron, O., where they have taken positions with the Goodyear Rubber Co.

Miss Marjorie McCoy, of Milledgeville, is spending the week end the guest of Miss Alice Schrock.

Miss Nina Marie Allen, of Milledgeville, returned to Wadsworth, O., this week to resume her teaching. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. F. M. Allen, who will make her home with Miss Allen, during the remainder of the school year.

Forest Ellis left this week for Chicago to resume his studies at Chicago University, after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ellis, and sister, Alice Elizabeth.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, editor and owner of The Circleville Democrat and Watchman, was a business visitor in this city Friday.

Mrs. Albert Hains, of Bloomingburg, who has been visiting her sisters, Mrs. Electa Selsor and Mrs. Amanda Van Pelt, during Mr. Hains' absence in Columbus, where he served on the Federal Grand Jury, returned to her home Friday evening.

Mr. James A. Miller, of Wilmington, spent Thursday and Friday in this city.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED FRIDAY NIGHT

PLANS FOR ANNUAL BANQUET DISCUSSED

ASK APPROPRIATION TO PAY CROW BOUNTY

At the annual election of officers held by the Fayette County Fish and Game Protective Association, Friday night, George Sunkel, for years one of the foremost workers of the organization, was elected president for the chosen vice-president; W. R. Crisenberry, secretary; and Floyd Elliott, treasurer. W. H. Hetteshimer, Harry Rankin and Robert McLean were elected directors.

During the evening the distribution of prizes for the past year was announced, and plans for the annual banquet, which is usually held in February, were discussed at some length.

A resolution was adopted asking the County Commissioners to appropriate the sum of $100 for each township in the county to pay the bounty of 25 cents on each crow killed in the respective townships, in accordance with the provisions of Section 1410-1 of the Ohio Fish and Game laws.

The following prizes were awarded for fish caught during the year.

Once Babs was sure she heard Shayle's footstep, and she got up and opened her window and looked down, but there was no one. A second time she could have sworn that she heard him whistling softly through the darkness, and she slipped on her dressing gown and went down to the library with a fast beating heart and groped her way across to the window. But before she could unfasten it a sound in the room behind her startled her, so that she turned sharply and cried out in terror, "Who's there?"

There was a moment of silence, then a smothered laugh, and someone switched on the light, and it was Jim.

"Silly! It's only me. I hoped to catch a burglar. It's quite likely they might come back tonight, as nobody would ever expect them."

She clung to him with a little sob of relief.

"Oh! You did frighten me."

"Silly kid! What are you down here for, anyway?"

She flushed guiltily.

"I thought I heard someone, too."

He looked at her with a strange expression in his eyes.

"So you came down as you are to catch a burglar, eh?"

"I should have screamed for help."

Jim laughed and pushed her towards the door.

"Well, go back to bed. You'll catch cold," and thankful to escape further questioning she obeyed.

After all, there was tomorrow and all the tomorrows, and old Banks would not forget to deliver her message.

Although he had managed to avoid Babs for a whole day, Holway knew quite well that sooner or later they must meet. The village was small, and though some little distance lay between the two houses, in the ordinary course of events he came across Babs on most days, and sometimes more than once, and there was no reason to suppose that things would be any different now.

After all, he had not found sufficient courage to write to her and break their engagement, and he was afraid to leave the house for fear of meeting her.

On the second morning following the storm when he was dawdling over his dressing with the dreamy feeling that time must somehow be killed, Banks came tapping at his door with the news that Colonel Wye-Smith was waiting downstairs to see him.

"Colonel Wye-Smith!" Shayle repeated the name in blank amazement.

"Are you sure?" he asked, for the Colonel had never before visited the house, and was always careful to allow his disapproval of Shayle to be publicly understood.

"Quite, but—"

"That's all I wanted to know. It's just as well to have a formal reference, although, as I say, she seems a nice enough little woman. I hope she'll be comfortable. Much obliged to you I'm sure. Good day," and he turned to go.

Shayle followed him to the door with a cynical smile on his lips. The whole thing amused him, even while it made him feel indignant with Lena for daring to mention that she had known him for so long. He would not have imagined the Colonel being at all anxious to place value upon any word of his, and impulsively he said so.

Colonel Wye-Smith turned and looked at him critically.

"I've nothing particularly against you expect your impecuniosity, Holway," he said, in his blunt, straightforward manner. "And even that only affects me as far as my daughter is concerned. For the rest, leaving her out of the business, as a matter of fact, I don't dislike you at all."

There was a bitter sneer on Shayle's handsome face, and he flushed hotly. "I am honored, I am sure," he said fiercely.

The Colonel put on his hat.

"Not at all! Not at all!" he said serenely, though there was a twinkle in his eye. "I like to call a spade a spade. Always found it good policy. Well, good morning," and he was gone.

Tomorrow—"The Black Sheep."

RADIO PROGRAMS AND NEWS

RADIO BRIEFS

Venezuela Building Station 9-5434, Caracas, Jan. 9.—Venezuela, one of the progressive South American republics that have had to depend upon other countries for radio entertainment, is to have its own station. It is planned to have the station in operation toward the beginning of February. A wave length of 400 meters has been chosen, which is advantageous to American fans as well, since they, too, may hear the broadcasts from Caracas as they pick up the programs of Mexico City and of Porto Rico.

Silent Night in Dispute
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 9.—The silent night question for Los Angeles is again a live one. Several of the stations observe a silent night but two of them the same night, while four stations do not reserve one night a week or silent periods for radio fans trying to tune in distant stations. Station KFI has made public their attitude against closing one night a week and are leading the fight against the practice.

ROYALTY IN POVERTY AMID ART TREASURES

ing has enormous value, possibly as much as $100,000. Paintings by Michelangelo have sold for more.
Other paintings by Van Dyck, great Dutch artist, whose work is eagerly sought by art museums and collectors.
Schaeffer, who no longer uses his title, inherited the treasures from his father, who was a man of great wealth and power in Austria. Many of his art treasures were lost during the war. He does not intend to part with the rest of them, despite his present low estate. His wife, who studied under great musicians, is giving piano lessons, and he earns small amounts as an artist, and together they earn enough to live without actual want amid their treasures.

DANCE MARATHONS BEING REVIVED
(By Associated Press.)
Milton, Mass., Jan. 9.—Fiddling contests may soon give way to Charleston marathons in public interest, Louise Shoate and Doris Bowle, 14-year-old high school girls read that an Ontario girl had claimed the Charleston record of 18 minutes and determined to go her one better.
To the accompaniment of a phonograph they held out for 33 minutes. The first 20 minutes, they said, were the easiest.

HEAVY SNOW FALLS ON ATLANTIC COAST

(By Associated Press.)
New York, Jan. 9.—Snow that has been sweeping across the North Central and Atlantic seaboard states struck New York today after dropping a white mantle on Washington last night.
Icy, snow-laden winds swept the sea-coast from North Carolina to Boston, bringing a sharp drop in temperature.
Shipping all along the coast from Norfolk was affected and in many cases vessels were forced to seek shelter. Ocean liners at Atlantic ports reported rough weather at sea.

CAPITAL WHITE UNDER SNOW BLANKET.

Washington, Jan. 9.—With a national capital under its first heavy snow blanket of winter, President and Mrs. Coolidge today took to the Potomac for a week end cruise on the Maydower. They were accompanied by Representative and Mrs. Begg, of Ohio.

COAST GUARD SAVES 6 ON DISABLED SHIP

(By Associated Press.)
Cape May, N. J., Jan. 9.—Two coast guards rescued six persons from the disabled yacht Baboon enroute from New York to Los Angeles after they had been without food or water for two days and how the coast guards themselves were later forced to abandon their own vessel and leap to another craft in a heavy northeast wind revealed at the coast guard base here today.

The CG-105 returned from patrol duty in the storm last night and encountered the Baboon listing and with much of her upper portion washed away.

The crew of the CG-105 took the Baboon in tow after rescuing two men two women and two sailors who were suffering from hunger, thirst and exposure. The six rescued persons were fed aboard the CG-105 and landed at Lewis Delaware.

While the Baboon was being docked the CG-201 backed into the CG-105 and stove in the bow of the rescue ship, forcing the members of the crew to abandon it.

O. S. U. STUDENT BODY IS NOT CRITICISED

(By Associated Press.)
Columbus, Jan. 9.—Governor Donahey, in a letter to the Boost Ohio committee of Ohio State University, declared that he has never heard the charge nor ever made the charge "there is anything wrong with the student body of Ohio State University as a whole."

"According to current reports, the actions of the violators have become so flagrant at times as to cast undue odium upon fraternities, university dances and other social gatherings at the university generally," the letter said.
"I am sure conditions can be bettered by the enforcement of proper discipline in which I know your committee and its affiliated organizations will co-operate and if the investigation accomplishes this result it will have served a good purpose."

HARBOR DRIED UP BY TIDAL WAVES

from the upper part of the harbor. A few seconds after the harbor had been emptied the first of the three tidal waves came sweeping against the shore. Many boats were thrown upon the flats and wrecked completely while those which rode out the first wave at anchor were caught in whirlpools and damaged. The bottom was exposed at points where a few seconds before it had been from eight to ten feet deep. No one was injured in the accident.

Of course, it was a woman who said, "An honest man is the loneliest work of God."

MAN WHO AIDED IN BANK ROBBERY DRAWS 10 YEARS IN PENITENTIARY

WHICH IS SUSPENDED PENDING GOOD BEHAVIOR.

EVIDENCE SHOWED MAN WAS FORCED INTO CRIME.

AND DID NOT SHARE IN THE MONEY OBTAINED.

Charles Little, 27, who drove the automobile in which Foster Thomas made his escape after robbing the Millerville Bank, of nearly $1,000 last September, Saturday entered a plea of guilty to the charge against him, and was sentenced by Judge C. A. Reid to ten years in the penitentiary, and this was suspended pending Little's future good behavior.

Little was indicted with Foster Thomas, on a bank robbery charge, but evidence disclosed that he had been made the tool in the robbery, and was not aware of the intentions of Thomas until some thirty minutes before the crime was committed.

Little's case had been investigated thoroughly by Prosecutor Maddox, and the man's story was fully corroborated by Thomas himself, who admitted that Little was not aware of the impending robbery until a half hour before, and that it was with utmost difficulty and only by threats that he finally induced Little to consent to meet him at a certain point after the robbery, and help him escape.

Little, it developed, did not share in the money obtained from the bank, and had never before been in serious trouble. It was also apparent that the man did not possess the daring or the criminal tendencies of his cousin, Foster Thomas, formerly of Sedalia, who is now serving a 25 year term in the Ohio Penitentiary, to which institution he was sentenced by Judge Reid.

Little will be detained in the Fayette county jail where he has been held prisoner since his arrest by Sheriff Ramsay immediately after Thomas confessed until he is photographed and papers are passed between the court and the Ohio Penitentiary.

Under the suspension of the ten years, if Little fails to walk the straight and narrow path, he may be picked up at any time and taken to the Ohio Penitentiary for violation of parole.

CHURCH FILLED FOR THE FUNERAL OF MRS. STUCKEY

Grace church was filled with relatives and friends, Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, for the funeral services of Mrs. Newton Stuckey, whose death earlier in the week had come as a great shock to her legion of friends.

Rev. Rose, of Sedalia, assisted by Rev. F. M. Evans, pastor of Grace M. E. church, conducted the funeral services. There was an unusual wealth of flowers from relatives and friends here and elsewhere.

Miss Marion Christopher, at the organ, played softly as the casket was brought into the church, and again upon departure. Favorite hymns of the deceased were read, together with a beautiful memoir.

At the conclusion of the services at the church the body was taken to the Washington cemetery for interment, a large number going to the cemetery for the committal services.

The hallbearers were Clinton Craig, Dr. A. N. Vandeman, Samuel Renick, Oliver Baughn, Oliver S. Nelson, and Elmer Highland.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT GRACE CHURCH

Special services will be held at Grace M. E. Church throughout the coming week, with sermon each night, by the pastor, Rev. F. M. Evans.

A feature of the services will be the mens' chorus. Services each evening begin at seven o'clock.

CISCO P. T. A. MEETS

The Cisco Parent-Teacher Association held its first meeting of 1926 at the Cisco school building Friday night with, in view of inclement weather conditions, a surprisingly large attendance. The feature of the evening meeting was the lecture of the national parks, with moving pictures, by county agent, W. W. Montomery.

The association has added about 65 new members in the membership drive of the past two weeks.

"The Worlds of the Earth"

Do you know that the earth is the basis of these three stages or epochs?

Have you wondered about the stages that society has gone through since the primeval days of Adam?

Can you trace the splendor of past stages of development with the fragments that history and ruins give to us?

Hear the speaker trace clearly these outlined from the Word of God and be delighted with his vision of the glorious outcome for the future.

AT THE THEATRES

WEEK OF JANUARY ELEVENTH

ANNOUNCEMENT has just been made of the engagement of Lucilla Mendez, late of the chorus of "MY GIRL," playing at the Vanderbilt Theatre in New York, and Ralph Ince, moving picture director. The engagement was made public by the girl's mother, Mrs. Joseph Bryce, on a receipt of a telegram saying: "Ralph and I engaged. Am very, very happy. Love." Lucilla left Broadway two weeks ago for Los Angeles.

Ralph Ince married Lucille Lee Stewart, sister of the movie actress, Anita Stewart, 15 years ago. He has just obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce from her on the grounds of ill treatment. In the summer of 1923 Ince and George Stewart, his brother-in-law, clashed, and young Stewart was said to have been quite severely beaten. The friendship of Ince and his fiancée dates back to three years ago when she was a member of the chorus of "LITTLE JESSE JAMES." At that time he was directing a picture titled "THE UNINVITED GUEST," and Lucilla was given a small part in the production. They will be married during 1926, as the law of California compels a wait of a year before the divorce decree becomes final.

Lucilla Mendez is said to be the daughter of ex-President Cipriano Castro, ex-President and dictator of Venezuela for many years. The story goes that when her father lost his health, power and fortune, she went on the American musical comedy stage.

Ralph Ince is the brother of the late Thomas Ince, picture play producer.

THE PALACE THEATRE

There is a fast-moving story on the Palace screen this week that is indeed well worth seeing. It's name "THE CRACKER JACK" and it certainly is every bit of that. With the breezy Johnny Hines in the stellar role, "THE CRACKER JACK" is in the hands of a most capable person who romps through seven intense reels of action, speed, humor and intrigue that registers practically every foot of the way.

"THE CRACKER JACK" is decidedly fast in its action, and its continuity builds gradually and evenly without a break, so that when the climax is reached one is prompted to say that it is a genuinely built structure with all the elements of bigness.

Hines' personality and ingenuity dominate the entire production, and justly so since he is the very hub around which the ingenious plot revolves. "THE CRACKER JACK" tells the story of a college boy who puts his genius to the test by putting over his uncle's pickle product. Pedkin's stuffed pickles have been on the market in haphazard fashion due to the slipshod business methods of Colonel Perkins, but Hines, in the role of Tommy Perkins, comes to the rescue and by his whirlwind advertising methods makes the pickle product known the length and breadth of the country. Particularly interesting is the sequence in which Tommy, in his attempt to sell a large shipment for export to South America, becomes mixed up in a peon revolution in Esquasada, which he single-handedly puts down, gets the girl of his dreams and incidentally saves the President of a South American republic. This latter sequence furnishes the main ingredients of a hair-raising plot that is bountifully interspersed with a host of comic incidents that register with a bang.

"THE CRACKER JACK" is a clever concoction of all those refreshing elements of action, humor, speed, love, interest and climaxes that make it sure-fire entertainment. It will remain at the Palace Theatre, Monday and Tuesday.

Dorothy Mackaill, beautiful blonde film queen, is her most enchanting self in her latest picture, "JOANNA," which will be seen for the first time, Wednesday and Thursday, at the Palace Theatre.

Miss Mackaill, who represents all that is fresh and spirited in the modern girl, is cast in a role that brings out the full play of these delightful attributes. According to the story of "JOANNA," the young film star, impersonating a dress model, is given a million dollars with the injunction to spend it as she sees fit.

She is not told where the million dollars comes from. Later, after she has spent it all in a hectic hitting of the high spots, she discovers that she has been the pawn in a wager between two magnates relative to the ability of a modern girl to live a fine life even if given the wherewithal to purchase the luxuries that her heart craves. It is unnecessary to state that the little dress model pulls through—and with flying colors.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed upon Miss Mackaill for her flawless characterization. There are times when her performance makes the heart leap with joy.

Excellent support is given the love-featured with her. No finer delineation by Jack Mulhall, who is co-star of a clean-cut youth could be imagined than that given by this young man. Included in the supporting cast are George Fawcett, Lillian Langdon, John T. Murray and Edwards Davis.

Two promising newcomers make their film debut in this picture. They are Rita Carewe, daughter of Edwin Carewe, who produced and directed the picture, and Dolores del Rio.

"To all indications, 'JOANNA' is a winner. It is surely one of Edwin Carewe's best productions, and that's saying a great deal.

Jackie Coogan comes, Friday and Saturday, to the Palace Theatre, and brings with him one of the outstanding comedies of this or any other season. The title of this latest Coogan attraction is "OLD CLOTHES" and it is as sweet and wholesome and clean as Monday morning's wash out of the line. It radiates happiness and laughter, more than that cannot be said of any motion picture.

From the opening scene where Timmy Kelly and Max Ginsberg, dealers in de luxe junk, recall the days of their wealth, and right on through the six reels of the picture, the audience is in an uproar. The gentlemen who guide the destinies of Master Coogan's career, have injected exactly the right amount of sentiment and pathos into the film and the Lilliputian star walks away with the honors in these episodes of the film.

Eddie Cline has invested the picture with his rare and discriminating sense for fun situations. As a general rule, comedy directors are prone to inject a bit of slapstick into their films, but never once does Mr. Cline allow to diverge from legitimate comedy situations. Willard Mack is credited with the authorship of "OLD CLOTHES." It would be unfair to close without special mention for the supporting cast in "OLD CLOTHES." Such notable names as Max Davidson, Lillian Elliott, Joan Crawford, James Mason and Alan Forrest are indicated on the announcement of the players, and every one gives an adequate performance including Frank Good, the cameraman, who has obtained some excellent lighting effects.

It is reported that Jack Coogan, Sr., gave Eddie Cline orders to make "OLD CLOTHES" Jackie's funniest picture. From what we will see on the screen at the Palace Theatre, Friday and Saturday, Cline has followed instructions implicitly.

THE GEM THEATRE

The Gem Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is presenting one of the truly worth-while comedy-dramas of the season in "PEACOCK FEATHERS," a Universal-Jewel in which Jacqueline Logan and Cullen Landis have the stellar roles.

The picture is unique in that it marks the screen premier of Prince Youca Troubetzkoy, a member of the Russian nobility, and is also the third production on American soil of Svend Gade, noted Danish director.

The story is from the novel by Temple Bethay, and is adapted by James O. Smeading, former dramatic editor of the New York Times. All of these facts were blended by Carl Laemmle to give one of the finest achievements of the current season.

There is not a dull moment in the picture. When the plot hesitates in its ceaseless trend, a bit of comedy is injected to round out a complete play which is a splendid family picture.

Besides these mentioned others in the cast are George Fawcett, Edwin J. Brady, Carolyn Idwin, Ward Crane, Emmett King, Aggie Herring and Dunbar Raymond.

The story deals with the problems of a young couple, both poor, who had hesitated before marriage because of their poverty. When they think they but find they have nothing but a neglected Western ranch which has been deserted for years. The girl accuses the boy of tricking her into the marriage and their troubles begin. In the lavish de luxe roof-garden scenes of "WINNER TAKE ALL," bringing Buck Jones to the Gem Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, a new screen beauty makes her debut, and seems destined to make her mark. Among the gorgeously gowned night life girls at the party given in honor of Buck, on becoming a champion prize fighter is Anastasia Reilly, a niece of Raymond Hitchcock, the famous comedian.

It was her first work before a motion picture camera, and director W. S. Van Dyke considers he has found an interesting type of striking and arresting beauty.

She's dark haired with a straight bob to her piquant face.

Miss Reilly has globe trotted as well as fox trotted, visiting many of the earth's nooks and corners. And is consequently thoroughly cosmopolitan as well as being a typical American girl of the best type.

From the original home of the great rod jazz, from China, she was accompanied on her visit to Hollywood by Miss Ching Ow Yonge, a young Chinese girl of old aristocratic family.

At this "shooting" of "WINNER TAKE ALL," Miss Ching Ow also donned her life as an Oriental flower girl at a red grease paint for the first time in the roof-garden party. Both the girls wrote long letters home to their mothers describing their experiences in the movies.

THE COLONIAL THEATRE

"THE SPLENDID CRIME," which comes to the Colonial Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, offers the rare combination of an unusually interesting story and a popular star.

It was written as well as produced by William de Mille, the noted Paramount director, who turned author again after a lapse of several years, and serves as a starring vehicle for the De Mille. As the title suggests, the plot has a crook theme, but Mr. de Mille is said to have treated it from a serio-comic angle, so that the picture is a fifty-fifty affair, in which action and comedy vie with drama and suspense.

Miss Daniels' role is that of a quaint, self-reliant girl, who has been brought up in an environment of poverty and crime. An unpleasant encounter with the police leads her to reflect on the advantages of honesty, and she announces her intention to go straight. However, her two companions, her foster father and his crook accomplice, persuade her to help them pull off just one more job in a house on Park Avenue.

The house is the home of Ned Hamilton and his sister, Anne Cornwall, two happy, carefree youngsters whose fortunes are dwindling rapidly, but who drift along in a happy, jazz fashion. Hamilton catches Ned in the act of robbing his safe, but is so intrigued by her vivid personality that he lets her go on her promise to reform.

Ned's experience as a dressmaker apprentice, her second meeting with Hamilton who becomes bankrupt, and her sacrifice to save him from his own folly, are amusingly and vividly depicted. Besides Miss Daniels and Neil Hamilton and Anne Cornwall, who support her, the cast includes Anthony Jovitt, Fred Walton, Josephine Crowell, Lloyd Corrigan and Mickey McTan.

VIERRA'S HAWAIIANS

An Evening in Hawaii

in their musical production at

The Colonial Theatre

Wednesday, January 13

Also Associated Exhibit's Society drama—"Fifty-Fifty"

For Wednesday in connection with an entertaining society drama, "FIFTY-FIFTY," the Colonial Theatre is presenting as an added attraction, Vierra's Hawaiians, who will give a forty-five minute entertainment, "AN EVENING IN HAWAII." This will be a musical production.

Thomas Meighan plays a dual role in "IRISH LUCK," his new Paramount starring picture, due on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at the Colonial Theatre.

As Lord Fitzhugh, a young Irish aristocrat and Tom Donahue, a New York traffic cop on holiday in Ireland, he has an opportunity to portray two sharply contrasting characters. On the one hand, as the Irish nobleman, he is suave, sophisticated, polished and something of a black sheep. As the Irish-American traffic cop, he is good-natured and simplehearted, an easy victim of a confidence game, and a terrible foe of a band of evil conspirators.

But the greatest differentiation in Meighan's portrayal of the two characters lies in the Meighan smile. Lord Fitzhugh is a sober individual, inclined to cynicism. He never smiles. Tom Donahue's nature is whimsical and good humored. When he finds himself stranded in Dublin with only a few shillings in his pocket, he smiles. And again, confronted by a band of murderous cut-throats, he smiles.

Lois Wilson heads the cast playing in support of the popular star.

The story was adapted for the screen by Thomas J. Geraghty from Norman Venn's "An Imperfect Imposter," which ran serially in the Saturday Evening Post.

Victor Heerman, who made "The Confidence Man" and "Old Home Week," directed. Other prominent names in the cast include Cecil Humphreys, Claude King, Ernest Lawford, Charles Hammond, Louise Grafton, S. B. Carrickson, Charles McDonald and Mary Poy.

"IRISH LUCK" is the picture Meighan went to Ireland to make.

RICE IN LAND OF WHEAT AND CORN

Lewistown, Ill.—(AP)—Highly successful rice cultivation in the land of wheat and corn has been accomplished by Bert Edwards, who manages a farm near here. He has just harvested a crop on a 135-acre patch with the bumper yield of 65 bushels to the acre. This is the first time that rice has ever been grown commercially this far north, Lewistown being in the northern half of the state. Cultivation of rice as an experiment was started two years ago. The result has been so successful that it is planned to gradually extend rice growing until there are 1,500 acres in cultivation.

HOUSE SITTING TIGHT ON LID
WHILE SENATE IS TOPSY-TURVY

BY ROBERT T. SMALL

(By Consolidated Press, Copyright 1926)
Washington, Jan. 9.—Slowly but surely it is being borne in upon Washington that things on Capitol Hill are topsy-turvy. The National House of Representatives, supposedly impetuous, hot headed, irresponsible and "close to the unthinking people" has become the conservative, cool-minded, responsible and conservative branch of the Congress of the United States. The Senate, "greatest deliberative body in all the world" is running wild on the mases.

The House is "keeping cool with Coolidge." The Senate is harum-scarum, ready to rattle off on a will-o-the-wisp chase at a moment's notice and slow to come back to anything approaching normalcy. The House sets for itself a definite program and adheres to it. The Senate seizes an indefinite program and runs away from it on every possible occasion. The House is sitting on the Washington lid. The Senate is trying to boil over.

It has actually been going on for years, this transformation on Capitol Hill, but no one has paid much attention to it. The Senate has been acting up almost continuously, but everyone has felt it would be different next session. But with each succeeding session the Senate appears to get more and more out of hand. Leadership in the body is an all but futile thing.

Suggestion of a revision of the rules brings virtually every Senator to his feet with a shout of "no". This shout has been loud enough this session to knock Vice President Dawes out of most of his afternoon naps. The Vice President was shouting at the Senate all during last summer and fall. The Senate is getting even with him today. The Vice President has been caught up in the "system" and a threat has just been made—and undoubtedly will be carried out—to use that system to the utmost in a desperate attempt to prevent the Senate from voting on the resolution which would give American adherence to the World Court of Justice.

Some seven or eight of the "wild" of the Senate got together last night and agreed to take advantage of every loose Senate rule to postpone and delay indefinitely action on the court. This step is taken as a means of "educating" the people who apparently want the court but are "too benighted" in the view of the survivors of the "Battalion of Death" to know anything about it. They must be told the terrors and pitfalls that await them.

The orderly House of Representatives is going to have loads of idle time on its hands while the disorderly Senate is threshing things out in its own peculiar and inimitable style. In a little while you will hear of the House taking long adjournments, waiting.
